few people realize or ~~Some or many of you present,~~ knows that the American Indian is bound by a strict spiritual law, legended to be handed-down from the CREATOR, GREAT SPIRIT.

* We, as ~~this, identity of being an entity called:~~ ~~THE~~ AMERICAN INDIANS are bound spiritually, to never do or say or pursue a quest that would change a person's spiritual belief in a Supreme Being.

However, this spiritual law does have a provisõ that limits this restriction.

If an individual, ~~or~~ tribe, ~~or~~ group, ~~or~~ nation, requests a point to be clearafied to a ritual, or Song or Dance or Mantra, that deals directly with the belief in a Supreme Being, then an answer is required.

I have found that such a request was made of me by an individual ~~from~~ ~~Australia~~ who is a member of your group and the fact that I am present — this request ~~was~~ <sup>was made to</sup> be collectively. Those of you, have fellowshipped with me in the past, were provided with knowledge that enhanced or strengthen your spiritual beliefs and nothing to change it.
This includes my speaking on the Kitchena Dolls which had to be corrected because it would have changed your spiritual beliefs.

Now one could use the argument that would make an answer impossible for the American Indian, if the codes to the Victorian Morality could be applied.

THE ARGUMENT! How does one know if the request is sincere?

THE ANSWER! If an Indian <sup>is</sup> required to give an answer, one must approach the Kiva or Sweat Lodge or Longhouse or group or tribe or nation, with Hands, Heart, and Mind in a state of INNOCENCE.
This is American Indian, Tribal Morality.

Of course giving the answer is not all that easy, because a little home work is needed to protect one's spiritual being from violatating this law.

CAN THE ANSWER BE FOUND AMONG THE REFERENCES THAT THIS INDIVIDUAL USES OR COULD USE?

I have studied to a lay-man's point of ~~references~~ that this individual has on spiritual or religious <sup>writings</sup> ~~concepts to the civilized world~~ which does encompass <sup>all</sup> ~~the~~ religions of today, and it cannot be found.

It could not be found in Edgar Casey's or Nostradamus' writings or in RAPHAEL'S WITCH, CICERO'S DEDIVANATIONE, GERMANY'S ZODIAC MAN,
