

churches do, which is a civilized science and art of Hypnotizing people or individuals into believing in their GOD or GODS.

I'm an American Indian and having been an Indian activist for over 18 years of my life, and as such, I watch the conditions on reservations very closely. Personal knowledge and research, it is easily concluded that all new ideas for a nation and its people are tried on Indians living on reservations before it is incorporated into civilized lifestyles.

I know the difference between natural and man-made diseases out of a testtube and its effect on humans, having been afflicted with one called POLIO. All the problems of this country and the rest of the world in medicine, diseases, hunger, law, and terrorism were first tried on Indian reservations and given a success ratio. In my lifetime, it was a common thing for Indian children to be kidnapped so whites could get a few acres of Indian land. I know of a complete Indian tribe that was kidnapped so parts of Arizona could be opened up for whites. In all these cases, Indians were never heard from again. There is a recent one still in progress, that will shake you in your boots if your God has no spiritual power.

It is against Federal Law for any Indian to go to a public Institution of learning unless there is an agreement between the U.S. Government and a state Educational Department. So Indians go to public schools because of this agreement and there is funds for it. Many of these school districts having Indian students do not worry about money for education as their school buildings (new) were built with Indian Education funds. There is more money spent in this Indian fund than all the school districts in the United States combined, yet the Indian is hated for attending the schools by the whites.

However, in this case both white and Indian students and their classrooms were sprayed with a dangerous pesticide that was ordered by the School Nurse. This school had to be closed down till all the carpeting was removed, the walls washed and repainted before it was reopened. The Pesticide which was in condensed form and was to be mixed to bring its danger down, was sprayed in a condensed form. What's its affect on humans is hush-hush and the school did not have a licensed pesticide Applicator Administor to spray the pesticide and it will be 10 years or or' individuals into believing in their GOD or GODS.

I'm an American Indian and having been an Indian activist for over 18 years of my life, and as such, I watch the conditions on reservations very- closely. Personal knowledge and research, it is easily concluded that all new ideas for a nation and its people are tried on Indians living on reservations before it is incorporated into civilized lifestyles.

I know the difference between natural and man-made diseases out of a testtube and its effect on humans, having been afflicted with one called POLIG. All the problems of this country and the rest of the world in medicine, diseases, hunger, law, and terrorism were first tried on Indian reservations and given a success ratio. In my lifetime, it was a common thing for Indian children to be kidnapped so whites could get a few acres of Indian land. I know of a complete Indian tribe that was kidnapped so parts of Arizona could be opened up for whites. In all these cases, Indians were never heard from again. There is a recent one still in progress, that will shake you in your boots if your God has no spiritual power'.

It is against Federal Law for any Indian to go to a public Institution of learning unless there is an agreement between the U.S. Government and a state Educational Department. So Indians go to public schools because of this agreement and there is funds for it. Many of these school districts having Indian students do not worry about money for education as their school buildings (new) were built with Indian Education funds. There is more money spent in this Indian "fund" than all the school districts in the United States combined, yet the Indian is "hated for" attending the schools by the whites.

However, in this case both white and Indian students and their class rooms were sprayed with a dangerous pesticide that was ordered by the School Nurse. This school had to be "closed" down till all the carpeting was removed, the walls washed and repainted before it was reopened. The Pesticide which was in condensed form and was to be mixed to bring its danger down, was sprayed in a condensed form. What's its affect on humans is hush-hush and the school did not have a licensed pesticide Applicator Administer* to spray the pesticide and it will be 10 years or