

But here is the answer to the questions asked. NONE!
Comes now the PARA-LEGAL for the client who is still not convicted or has been convicted, who owes no allegiance to the court as "Officer of the Court", but comes with constitutional rights of his own, as well as for his client. Remember the license attorney while he represents his client in a court of law, if he represents properly or represents to convict his client has no constitutional rights. Powell v. Alabama, 287 U.S. 45; Gideon v. Wainwright, 372 U.S. 355; and Lindh v. O'Hara, (Del. S. Ct. 8/6/74) 15 CRL. 2495.

But here is the answer to the questions asked. NONE?

Comes now the PARA-LEGAL for the client who is still not convicted or has been convicted, who owes no allegiance to the court as "Officer of the Court", but comes with constitutional rights of his own, as well as for his client. Remember the license attorney while he represents his client in a court of law, if he represents properly or represents to convict his client has no constitutional rights. Powell v. Alabama, 287 U.S. 45; Gideon v. Wainwright, 372 U.S. 355; and Lindh v. O'Hara,