

1. SOVEREIGN(TY)
2. QUASI-SOVEREIGN(TY)
3. TRIBAL GOVERNMENT
4. TRIBE
5. REFERENDUM
6. POLITICAL SUB-DIVISION
7. AMBIGUOUS
8. CORPORATION

The one word that should be on this list, is never used or presented because it is too great and exact in identifying an Individual with SOVEREIGN POWER - THE TERM IS SIGNATORY:

An American Indian that is a descendant of a tribe that signed a TREATY as a - legitimate tribe and government.

To claim this right, one must know if the TREATY was not a TREATISE and the GOVERNMENT was not a CORPORATION.

SOVEREIGNTY

It's not clear in my mind, just how the United States became a SOVEREIGN, only that Indian tribes established the border between Canada and the United States with the exception of Indian tribes belonging to the Iroquois (which is not the 5, or 6, or 7 Nations) Confederacy who have territories on both sides. I do remember when World War II came about - the U.S. had to get permission from Indian tribes to make war in Europe, Not Japan and the reason for this is because of prior treaties dealing with European countries. The same is true to the border between Mexico and the United States. Even though the United States goes by THE CORPUS JURIS SECUNDUM, there is no legal evidence that the people were ever removed from BEING MEMBERS OF A PENAL COLONY.

If one was to take INTERNATIONAL LAW to its finest abstract concepts, there is only one event in world history that could have brought this about and that is the war between the North and the South. The alleged civil war. In the beginning, there was 13 Colonies belonging to Great Britain (Colonies - LATIN - colonus, meaning Farmer: A body of emigrants who settle in a remote region but remain under control of a parent country). The wars involved with these white settlers and Great Britain was over being taxed for growing Hemp or Marijuana for the conquering war machine of England. England was held back from making these prisoners behave due to treaties and could not cross certain Indian land or territories. Remember George Washington was born before England took on the Gregorian Calendar.

The one word that should be on this list, is never used or presented because it is too great and exact in identifying an Individual with SOVEREIGN POWER - THE TERM IS SIG

An American Indian that is a descendant of a tribe that signed a TREATY as a legitimate and government

To this night, one must know if the TREATY was not a TREATISE and the GOVERNMENT was not a CORPORATION.

_ soveaeleww

It's not clear in my mind, just how the United States became a SOVEREIGN, only that Indian tribes established the border between Canada and the United States with the exception of Indian tribes belonging to the Iroquois (which is not the 5, or 6, or 7 Nations) Confederacy who have territories on both sides. I do remember when World War II came about - the U.S. had to get permission from Indian tribes to make war in Europe, Not Japan and the reason for this is because of prior treaties dealing with European countries. The same is true to the border between Mexico and the United States. Even though the United States goes by THE CORPUS JURIS SECUNDUM QUOD HABENT. CVEH Uluugu mc: s...um.\:u uomo.; uve... .., . . ,,, _____ there is no legal evidence that the people were ever removed from BEING IN THE HANDS OF A PENAL COLONY. IN MEMBERS

If one was to take INTERNATIONAL LAW to its finest abstract concepts there is only one event in world history that could have brought this about and that is the war between the North and the South. The alleged civil war. In the beginning there was belonging to Great Britain (Colonies LATIN colonies, moaning Farmers'. A of emigrants settle in a remote region but remain under control of a parent country). The wars involved with these white settlers and Great Britain was over being taxed for growing Hemp or Marijuana for the conquering war machine of England.

was not bad from making these prisoners behave due to treaties and could not cross certain Indian land or territories. Remember George Washington was born before England took on the Gregorian Calendar.