-1"

We must first synchronize time. To demand a new concept in time will not fulfill the science needed to correctly synchronize time. This can be taken from the concept of correcting a problem. If one has been practicing a science and it has been discovered it is in error, one does not discard the science and begin a new one, but takes the old one and trys to find out when the science in error was first started which will give you a starting point to begin the new concept in time. To discover that the present day science is in error for keeping time, is an argument by itself because the formula proves it is correct. So, it is the formula that is incorrect.

As an American Indian, for years, I heard the comments and jokes made by old Ancient Indians on the Calendar of the white man. Because these old Indians carried no credentials that the civilized world recognizes as an authority for giving an opinion or opinions, one is to disregard any of their opinions given. Here again we must go back to the beginning when present day or past calendars were constructed and it will show all calenda were constructed from Ancient methods who carried no credentials in the science they were in. If their methods were used to begin all calendars, they had to be synchronized and correct.

On Indian reservations and Pueblos found in the United States, the argument on correct synchronized time and unsynchronized time can still be found today in the year of 1986 A.D. Those believing in the correct time are Ostracized(banished) from the rest of the tribe in tribal rituals, while those believing in the unsynchronized time, lead the rest of tribal members. These members wonder why they have no spiritual power. On one Indian Pueblo, there are 15 to 17 Kivas. Out of these Kivas only three are recognized who believe in doing tribal rituals according to the time of the white man or Gregorian Calendar. The rest are Ostracized. I can name a Medicine Man deceased who spent his entire life-time of 70 years

We must first synchronize time. To demand a new concept in time will not fulfill the science needed to correctly synchronize time. This can be taken from the concept of correcting a problem. If one has been practicing a science and it has been discovered it is in error', one does not discard the science and begin a new one, but takes the old one and trys to find out when the science in error was first started which will give you a starting point to begin the new concept in time. To discover that the present day science is in error for keeping time, is an argument by itself because the formula proves it is correct. So, it is the formula that is incorrect. As an American Indian, for years, I heard the comments and jokes made by old Ancient Indians on the Calendar of the white man. Because these old Indians carried no credentials that the civilized world recognizes as an authority-i` or giving an opinion or opinions, one is to disregard any of their opinions given. Here again we must go back to the beginning when present day or past. calendars were constructed and it will show all Calenda were constructed from Ancient methods who carried no credentials in the science they were in. If their methods were used to begin all calendars, they had to be synchrox 1ízed..a nd correct.

On Indian reservations and Pueblos found in the United States, the argument synchronized time and unsynchronized time can still be found today in the year of 1986 Those believing in the correct time are Ostracized(banìshed) from the rest of the tribe in tribal rituals, while those believing in the unsynchronized time, lead the rest of tribal members. These members wonder why they have no Spiritual power. On one Indian Pueblo, there are 15 to 17 Out of these Kivas only three are fecognized who Ínelieve in doing _tribal rituals accordingto the time of the whit@ man or Gregorian Calendar. The rest are Ostracized. I can name a Medicine Man deceased who spent his' entire of 70 years